BIOGRAPHY

Jessica Taylor in
UPN's "HAUNTED"

Lynn Collins portrays Jessica, Frank Taylor's ex-wife and an assistant D.A. who tries to help her ex-husband cope with the tragic disappearance of their son.

Born in Houston, Collins spent the majority of her formative years in Singapore. During her teens, she returned to Houston to finish her last years of high school and later earned a bachelor's degree in drama from The Julliard School in New York.

On the small screen, Collins has made guest appearances on episodes of "Law & Order: SVU" and "The Education of Max Bickford."

Collins has also performed in numerous productions at top theaters in both Los Angeles and New York. Most recently, she was seen in "The Women" on Broadway, "Hamlet" at The Public Theater in New York, which also starred Liev Schreiber, and "Romeo & Juliet" at the Ahmanson Theater, where she starred opposite D.B. Woodside with Sir Peter Hall directing.

Upcoming films featuring Collins include the independent film "Never Get Outta The Boat," as well as "Down With Love," in which she appears with Rene Zellweger and Ewan McGregor.

Collins recently moved to Los Angeles with her fiancé. She enjoys astrology, cooking and has an impressive green thumb.
